OF SUBSUPIPED THE ADVICE

PARTICULARS OF THE SHELBYVILLE FIGHT. From a gentleman who was in Shelby ville at the time that Dave Mar'in made his raid late that place, we have a correct version of the offair. The guerillas entered the place at half past 5 o'clock on Friday morning, firlag at randem about the streets. They dismounted. g ve their herses to some negro men to hold, and advanced on the conrt-hanse, taking peaceable presession of the building. The doors were well barred, and in attempting to break them down, considerable difficulty was experienced. The noise cocasioned by the thumping aroused Mr. Thomas C. McGrath, residing on the opposite side of the street. He raised the window of his house, and, with his Henry rifle, commenced firing on the sconndrels. J. H. Veach, a notorious entthroat, took poaltion behind a tree in the court-house yard and returned the fire of Mr. McGrath. Mc-Grath watched his opponent well, and, taking advantage of the exposure of his form, levelled his gnn and fired. The aim was true, and the robber fell and died, shot through the body. He was diessed in a Confederate uniform, aside from the hat, which was Federal A man named Smith, residing near Obristiansburg was also shot in the court-house yard and died there. He was dressed in a Federal nulform. Soon after the firing commenced, John H. Masonbeimer, an old discharged soldier from the 15th Kentucky volunteers, stepped ont into the street, and, without atmpting to shield his form, in the most cool and deliberate manner took aim with his Henry rifle and fired in rapid succession at the gnerillas. A negro man holding the horses was mistaken for one of the cuttbroats, and the same ball from Mr. Masonheimer's rifle ki'led him and two horses. The guerillas acted in the most cowardly manner, as they rushed from the courthonse and made a hasty skedaddle from the town, being frightened away by two men alone. Five horses were killed and four capinred. A man named Dale, who joined the guerilla band at Boston, was fatally wounded. His herse fell in the road with bim and died, about a quarter of a mile from the town. Dale was picked up and carried into a house near by, where he died in less than half an honr. He was shot in the hand and through the body. The thieves thought to make an easy cap'nre of Shelbyville and plander the houses, but they were sadly mistaken. Martin's family reside in the place, and he rode within ten feet of his own door. The gnerillas were much demoralized in their ront, and retroated in several directions. It is thought that they will concentrate near Christiansburg. The cltizens of Shelbyville are always prepared to extend to them a warm welcome.

following account of the various documents and it was also the intention of the rebels to issued by the Pontifical government: "The Holy See retains in its documents the venerated forms which have been handed down to it for centuries. It has the Bull, the Brief, the Latin Letter, the Chirograph, and the Rescript. The Ball is on gray parchment, with a leaden scal, sub plumbo, dated in the old Roman style of the Calends, Idee, and Nones, written in Gothic characters and with abbreviations; the vowels are frequently omltted, and the adverbs and particles have conventional signs. One page can contain a great quantity of matter. The Brief is on white parchment with a seal in red ink; it bears the formula sub annulo piscatoris, is dated according to the calendar, and is more frequently signed by the Cardinal Secretary of Briefs than by the Pope, The Latin Letter is on white paper, dated like the Brief, bears a seal of red wax with the arms of the Pope, who signs it, and has for formula, Datum Romæ apud S. Petrum, etc. All these documents are in Latin. The Chiregraph is frequently in Italian, and requiree to be registered by a notary, for it is considered as a private act of the pontiff, and the anthenticity of it cannot be left to open dispute. The Rescript is the reply made by the Pope, by the Cardinal, or by the secretary of a congregation, on the margin or on the back of a petition or consultation."

A joint stock company has been formed in London called the "Chrystal Sanltarinm Company." This company proposes to do notbling less than to cover in with glass a large area of ground "and to preserve therein en equable temperature, similar to Madeira; to build residences having communleatlon with the grounds so inclosed, and to lay ont the interior in the most attractive form of landscape gardening, with the fruits and foliage snitable to a climate like Madeira.' It is mentioned in its prospectns, that, with these viewe, a beantiful property, consisting of a mansion and park of about 140 acres, situated only a few mlles from London, has been provisionally obtained. There is to be a hotel, and, in addition, snites of apartments and residences are to be let fornished. A number of respectable names figure as directors. The capital is £250,000 in £25 shares

There are over a quarter of a million of people in England, bearing the name of Smith, and above 45,000 persons in Scotlaud. If you meet 73 persons in England, or 68 in Scotland, you may expect to find a Smith among them. Next to Smith there comes in each country a purely local name-Jones in England and Wales, Macdonald In Scotland; in every 78 persons in Scotland there is a Macdonald.

The death is announced of Lady Mary Fox, second daughter of the late William IV. and Mrs. Jordan. The late Lady Mary Fox was born in 1798, and married, in 1824, Lieut. Gen. Fox, a natural son of the late Lord Holland, and Accountant General of the Duchy of Lancaster.

A Coun Wintha Coming .- Mr. C. L. Flint Secretary of the Massachnsotta Board of Agriculture, prophesies that next winter will be one of nausnal severity. Mr. Flint remarks: The cold winter of 1864 preceded a summer marked by a sore and long continued drouth in July and August. In 1748 the drouth was intenee in New England, and this summer was followed by so hard a winter that the enffering was intense. In 1749 there was ander "melancholy lime;" the winter following, "long and dreary;" and the summer of 1762 accompanied by a drouth of terrible

Plug obacco seems to be the staple, though many other articles change hands in this strange moment.

We have some news from the other eide of the line. Captain Whitlock, of Gen. Leg-gett's etaff, who was taken prisoner dering the Merldian raid, several months ego, managed to escape the vigilance of his keepers, and yesterday came into our lines. He came where he has been in confinement ever since his capture. He gave a thrilling account of his journey through the enemy's country, of his sufferings and privations, and of the great difficulty he met with in his attempt to striks our lines. He brought with him a great deal of important information, which, of course, 1 sm not at liberty to dieclose. The prisoners who have been confined at Andersonville and PAPAL DOCUMENTS -The Monde gives the Macon, for the most part, have been removed, emova those who were left at these shortly. The Captnin was confined in the jail at Macon with about forty others. He says it has been his only oc-copation since his capture, up to the time of his escape, to devise plans by which he might get away. In all except the last was he disappointed. Being considered a dangerous man, he was taken from his first placs of confinement (in the stockade) and placed with other officere of a like character in the jail of the city; but, before being conducted to the latter place, he, in company with one or two others, succeeded in secreting upon their persons a chisel and a small saw, which they afterward concaaled in the strawe of an old broom. With these implements and great patience they succeeded in making an op Jack Sheppard fashion, in the side of the building. But the air of liberty was not yet reached, for they had a guard to $888, who, should be discover them, he felt assented would hold no communication with them, except that which proceeds from the onth of a musket. The gnard perceived then toward them in a threatening manner. Here was a quandary which they had not expected. When they advanced toward him he raised his gun and levelled it at thoir heads; when they receded from him he would lower his precessain. During all these movements neither party spoke a word, but each watched the other attentively. Finding that nothing could be effected under these circumstances, would wait for the relief, and try the other grand. At last it came, and they, after the gnard had gone to sleep, passed across his teat into an old warehouse, and from theuce escaped beyond the limits of the city. The Captain came ont with three others, but a captain came ont with three others, but as soon as they left Macon they separated, each pulsuing a different course, and each, no doubt, arriving within the Federal lines. As Whitlock came along he subsisted on green forn altegether, having succeeded in obtaining a little salt from a runaway negro who was concealing himself within a swamp.

A journey of five nights through the forests, swamps, and underbrush, finally brought him to one pickets, who arrested and brought him into camp as a spy—but on his arrival at head-parters he made himself known, and was their warm congratulations and assistance in his exhausted condition. And truly, he was in a citiable state; trave!-wern and dusty, clothing ragged and dirty, his body emaclated by imprisonment, care, and starvation, he was an object worthy of deep sympathy and commiseration. STONBMAN'S EXPEDITION. From accounts farnished him by negroe and the guards at the prison, we are led to he lieve the expedition was only partially suc-cessful—for although Stoneman inflicted great damage upon the railroad on the south side of Macon, yet he surrendered his com-mand to a force of not over three hundred and was in much greater strength. He is now it the rebel hospital at Macon, confined to his hed by sickness. It is said he shed tears on teing informed of the size of the force which captured him. Before he surrendered, he encceeded in destroying two valuable bridges, ne spanning the Oconee river, and the other Valunt Tree creek.

The lormer is said to have been worth two billions of dollars. The loss of these bridges at the present time is a serious blow to the rebels. It is claimed by thom that new bridges are already prepured at each of these points with which to repair their loss, but this is very donbtful, for mechanics are so searco that it would be impossible to procure them, in numbers sufficient to complete such extensive structures, in so short a time.

Through his father's infinencea calet's war rant was procured for young Woodward, and be entered the Military Anademy at West Point, from the New Haven Desrict. His immediate predecessors from the same district were Colonel Fred Myers, of the Quartermas-ter's Department, General Horatio G. Wright, General Henry Benham, and, at an earlier day, E. D. Mansfield, Esq., Commissioner of Statistics for Obio.

Seme sixteen years since, one night, while endeavoring to quell a disturbance occasioned hy a party of rowdy students, Tutor Dwight. of Yale College, received a mortal blow from an nnknown hand, with the iron bar of a window shutter. He lingered a short time, and died greatly lamented for his extraordinary moral worth and fine intellect. Young Woodward was at this time at home on fur lough, and according to popular rumor, was the guilty party who dealt the fatal blow. How this may have been, we know not; but he never returned to West Point, and disap-peared altogether from that section of country. Where he went was a mystery. It was reported he had left the United States. It now appears that he fled to Hopkinsville in south-western Kentneky, figured there as a echoolmaster, and at one time edited the county paper. In Angust, 1861, he raised the first and only rebei regiment in the county. A year later, their time being out, he, with some of the regiment, returned to Hopkiesville. He remained a few weeks, left, and again a flag of truce. He demanded its surrender, ating be was backed by five hundred men, inding the citizens determlued on relistance c left, and with eight hundred more new rehe left, and with eight hundred more new re-cruits, which he gathered, he went South. After two years more of fighting, he made his appearance on the ontskirts of Hopkins-ville, just past midnight, on Thursday of last week, August 18 h. This time he was at the head of two hundred guarrillas. They came on, yelling like demons, and, dashing into the on, yelling like demon, and, dashing into the town, got as far as the Court-house, when they met with such a warm resistance from about sixty of the 524 Kentneky, that they returned to the suburbs. The Court-house bell rung the alarm; the citizens assembled for defence, the rebells again attacked, and were again driven.

At daylight they attempted a third charge. Woodward failed to rally his men. He rode several rods in advance of his band, and was in the act of firing his pistol when his horse was shot, and he fell mortally wounded on the very spot where, October 1st, 1861, he

Cuatous Deg Ankogorn.-A friend has reeived from a San Francisco correspondeat the following aneedote respecting a dog

Among the many curlous things here, there Among the many curious things here, there is one which I think will interest you. It is the story of a dog. The animal rejoices in the memo of "Bummer," which being translated means "loafer," Some time ago Bummer found another dog who had his leg isjured, and was very ill, lying in the street. He carried him off and hid him in a vacant lot, and daily exprised him food notil he recovered daily exprised him food notil he recovered. daily earried him food until he recovered, when they appeared together in the streets, and a waya remained together from morning until night. Bummer and Lazarus (as the ther dog was named), were as well known to very one in the State as A, B, C,-every oue petted them—when hungry all thay had to do was to go luto any restaurant, where they received the best of everything. Lazarus died some months ago, but Bnmmer is still to be seen lounging round the principal streets and restaurants; the latter esteem it a great favor to receive a call from him. They have earried it so far here, that the city has really passed a special set exempting Bummer from the dog law I and woe betide the person who hould be bold enough to insult him. hought the story of Bummer and Lazarus uite a touching oue whan I heard it, and it really true.

THE "INTERNATIONAL" PAIZE FIGHT-JOE These men completed a further stake of £50 s Barbican. The honce for the next deposit is rot yet determined on. Joe Coharn has been eccived with much applause by the Liverpoor porting world at the American House, when e has displayed his abilities with the glove n a most estisfactory manner. With Joe Goss and Bill Ryull he has proved himself swlft and sleedy, and to some people's notions has had all the best of it. With Jack Rooke, too, he has insprised even his own admirers. Rooke's excistant practice with the gloves, however, long time to stall off the determined attacks of the American hero, but the bonts generally ended in Rooke being driven behind the scenes. Coburn bas also exhibited with Sam Hurst (the Staleybridge Infant), but of conce Hurst (the Staleybridge Infant), but of connect the latter, however power ni, cannot in any way be regarded as a trial horse, as between the respective merits of Obbarn and Mace. Each night of Joe's appearance the house has been crowded, and we are beand to say, so far as can be judged by his parfitmance, there is every reason to believe that his bekens were justified in bringing him forward.

titles of earth thrown up by the enemy wilh engineering skill, and look at the glitering bayonets of 50,000 or 60,000 veteran soldiers, sor ported and protected by n powerful artillery so proted and protected by n powerful artillery all combined for his destruction, he would certainly hesitate before casting his sacrifican pen such an altar of butchery. For a circuit of ten miles Atlanta is fortified with powerful works, and behind these is a maddened and infuriated army. Lieutenant-General Hood, "the great rebel butcher," has taken the contract to hold the doomed city, though he slaughters his soldiers and reddens the streats with their clood. That he can or cannot do this does not so much depend upon the rethis does not so much depend upon the respective strength of the bostile armles as upon the skilfniness with which they are handled, their rapid concentration upon the weak points of the enemy's lines, and the desperate energy evinced in repelling assaults, or the overwhelming impetuesity in making them. It makes but little difference whether an army wars for principle or honor. It is human na-ture to light for mastery and victory. 1 ture to light for mastery and victory, lighteright of numbers alone were to decide the fate of nations, France would have lain a corpse at the fact of the allied armies. Napoleon, with 40,000 men, trampled Europe ander his foot. Sohelski, with 30,000 Poles, routed end broke the power of 135,000 Turks. England, with a territory smaller than the State of Wisconsin, has conquered, by the strategy of war, an arma of this carch's turface, around which, at some one point. ur'ace, propud which, at some one point, the sun is forever shining. So you see that brain and energy, with limited cap and energy, which to all intents and purposes the proved ireelf useless. We used this kind of brain, and had unlimited material dring the first two years of the war-we know the results—defeat and disaster everywhere. A bardinl of rebils, so to speak, made a successful defeation. ter emed, (quipped, clothed, and id than cur adversaries. The power of concentratioe, of emeteing forces at a given point to work out grand, decisive, and lasting results, pervaded every nervo and fibre of the enemy's life. We were vascillating. The armies of the republic were everywhere, and yet no where when vanting. Unfortunately was this the case at the battles of Bull Run and Shilob. And again at bloody Chickamanga failed to desirely the opposing army, because it evir end that desperate energy of which I have already spoken. At the tattles of Missian Ridge and the storming of Lookout was displayed the grandest military movement on record. It was lasting in its results—a perpetual monument to the genius of the General who planned it and the incomparable army by whom it was executed. We have this army still, and the leading spirits under whose daring and skill clory. But mark the change. While we have driven the enemy from fortresses sepdred in the enemy from forcesses sep-posed impregnatic, and advanced three hun-dred miles into his territory (at least what he is pleased to call such), it must be romem-bered that in so doing we have very materially and visibly weakened the main strength of the army. This is caused by losses in bat-tle, by death and discuss and by the large force left in our rear, necessary munication. Again, see how the ranks are thinned in detailing men as teamsters, post-mac'ers, clerks, &c. Such positions as the last named should be filled by citizens, and if occible by such men as are not liable to draft, t is no part of a soldier's life to play teamster and clerk. While the rebel less in battle may qual ours, while he may lese territory, and set defeat, still as he rotreats he accumulates is kels who protect his rear, and at the same while we are leaving ours. Such is really the relative position of the hostile armies about Atlenta to day. It is well to know the truth. It is wise to be prepared for a coming storm. The lamested Douglas well knew that the This can only be done by furnishing the requisite number of men necessary far its execution. The capture of the city alone is not the great point—the great result. The destruction of the rebel army in Atlanta won death of the result of the ment of our fathers must be perpetuated. A EISTORY OF THE ENGLISH COUNTY OF Coventay .- Mr. Bloxbam, member of the English Paralament, recently made a speech giving its history. From a report in the Lon-

Its history shows that the centry has been visited by many crowned heads—Edward 1., II., IV., Richard I. and III., Henry IV., Edzabath, James I. Charles I. and II., W liam III., George IV., William IV., and Queen Victoria. Among its poets are Shakespeare, Diayton, Somerville, and the greatest living poet, Walter Savage Landor. Shenstone was educated in the county, and among antiqua-res are the names of Sir Simon Archer and Sir W. Dugdale. The civil war of the sevencentury was commenced luhite, and the county is replete with nwrest. I am glad to contrast the language of public addresses of the present time with se language used in former times. In the reign of Queen Elizabeth we remember that the people of Coventry, understanding the Queen admired poetry, presented an address to her Majesty, couched in the following

An organization calling Itself the Union National Convention Committee, will meet to-morrow. Amos Kendail is chairman. Its of ject is difficult to understand, but it is said to be in favor of McClellan. Judge Campbell, of Tennessee, is a member. There is wome talk of making Campbell president of the convention. The Ohto delegation will cast their first voto fer ex Senator Allen, but with no intention f neminaling bim.

The surface talk has been for McOlollan. ard the impression last night was that he wenld be nominated.

The peace men have, however, been coming in pretty strong to-day, and it is found that K(Olellan's strength in the Western States is not so great as his friends claimed. He has for instruce but eight friends in the Ohio delegation. That McCiellan has fallen in the last twenty-feur hours is quite perceptible. Pennsylvania and the New Englann States are strong for him.

New York, 23 usual, is not reliable for anybody. Fillmore has no considerable strength in any quarter. There is considerable talk about Gov. Seymour, of New York, who will probably be introduced when McClellan is choked off by the two-thirds vote.

What with the divorce court and police onris, the daily papers manage to furnish several columns a day of very spicy reading to the British public. In conversing with a lady, who is considered at the head of the sensation literature in Eegland, the other day, of this matter, I suggested that a constraint of the press seemed quite as necessary as that excreised over the State by the Lord Ohamberlain and the dault whether the entire supberlain, and the doubt whether the entire sup-pression of a large class of police cases might ot be an advantage to the morals of the

A MURDEROUS REBEL MISSILE .- A young man namest Kinuey, formally a Trojan, but receutly belonging to a Western regiment, reached this city yesterday. He served for a long time under General Sherman, and was nunded at the battle of Alatoona. Tha circumstancea attending his injuries are such as we do not reco leet to have seen recorded during the war. Young Kinney was shot in the lower part of the leg by a bullet—apparently an ordinary rifle ball. It lodged in the fimb, but did not prevent his walking to the rear. He had just seated himself in an ambulance, talf an hour after being hit, when the bullet xploded in his leg, shattering the limb ter-ibly, making four distinct openings, and ribly, making four distinct openings, and earrying away a quantity of the bone. Despite the severe shock, the young hero travelled to his homo in Troy, and he is now under the care of our surgeons, with a chance of recovery. He is as patriotic as he is brave Save my limb, doctor," he said, "for God's sake; I want to get back and join my regiment. But if I've got to luse both legs for my country, why, it's all right." The use of missiles that explode half an hour after lodgment in any part of the body is an English novelty, practised only by the rebels. It the last refinement of the barbarism of war, and is a fit illustration of Southern "chivalry."- Troy Times.

From Murfreeshere to Chickamanga, the 15th had its abare of the tells and dargors of the nrmy. its after of the tolls and dangors of the nrmy, frequently skirmishing with the enemy for days, without rest, and with scanty food. The history of its actions at Chickamanga is but a repetition of its deeds at Perryville and Stone river. Now guided by the gallantry and skill of its third Colonel, Marion C. Tayler, it stood the ordeal of the 14-h corps under Themes on the aventual Sunday in Section for Themes, on that eventful Sun lay in September, and rext day, at Rossville, harled hack a brigade of menated intentry that assailed last Mission Ridge, and was the last regiment to leave the picket line on Thesday morning when the whole Army of the Cumberland was age. safe incide the defences of Chattanogga. While the halance of the army was resting in and around Chattanoega, after the enemy was driven from Mission Ridge, the 15th was put driven from Mission Ridge, the 15th was put cen peet duty, but as soon as the present campaign was determined on, Col. Taylor asked to have the regiment relieved that it might share the fortness of Sherman's gallant army. H's request was complied with, and the regiment marched from Chattanooga on the morning of the 3d of May. It is now over a hundred days since the troops marched from the Terressee, and for over 90 of that 100, the 15th Kenneky has been on the front line, battling with the enemy, and by its gallant conduct with the enemy, and by its gallant conduct winning the thanks of commanders, the admiration of the troeps, and, it is to be honed, the lasting gratitude of the people. From Tnnnel Hill and Resaca to Kinnesaw and Atlanta its path is marked with blood, the blood of the traitor as well as that of its brave officers and men. From the day that the young and cifted and noble and belowed McDowell fell in gifted and noble and beloved McDowell fell in the fatal charge at Resaca, to this moment when rife and Napoleon are thundering the that the 15th Ky, has failed or faltered in the discharge of its sacred duty. Wharever the fight was thickest and duty called, there was Col. Taylor and his regiment, striking heme for the flag and country of his birth. I have yet to learn of a single Kentucky regiment that has not done its whole duty sinos this unhappy rebellion was lnangarated, but believe the 13 h has suffared more in killed and wounded than any I know of. The last annual report of Adjutant General Boyle shows twice the number of killed in the 15 h than what occurred in any other, and I regret than what occurred in any other, and I regret to say that this campaign has not diminished the proportion. The regiment is now using its third stand of colors, just furnished by the Government. The first, presented by the ladies of Louisville, was shot to pieces at Perryville, and sentto the State Capitol by Col. Forman. The second was presented to the regiment in the name of the ladies of Louisville by General Runsseau. It went through the battles of Stone River, Chiekamanga, Ressca, Dallas, Kinnesaw, and Chattateochie, and is an torn by shot and shell, that if unrurled it would fall from the lance. The third only reached the regiment a ance. The third coly reached the regiment a few days ago, and was baptized in fire on Sunday week while the regiment was charging the works of the enemy. It shows a respectable number of bullat holes, and doubt-less will have many added before the campaign terminates. Dr. Dunn has kindly furnished me with the following list of casualice, that occurred in the regiment since the may be of some advantage to many of year Colonel M. C. THE DRAFT. - A much estesmed friend rites to us from Oweusboro, as follows: Cannot something be done to postpone the rest? The time is very closs at hand. Volnteering is going on quite briskly in Kenucky, and if we only had a little more time ur quota would without a doubt be filled, and at too, very shortly. Agaiu: there are any who are subject to the draft who cantgo without a great loss, and substitute okers knowing this, are operating on their are by demanding fabulous prices for subitutes, which is causing many to become armed and a panic is likely to result. Whereas if a stay of the draft could be had, excuiting would continue, the substitute roker lose his calling, the psople's fears be layed, and our quota filed without any prices lose of time nothe Government.

soldiers, just from an active campaign, can be easily imagined. Thousands are without pants or costs, and hundreds without even a sallayed, and our quota filled without any pair of drawers to cover their uakedness. To these men, as indeed to all prisoners, there is Issued three-quarters of a pound of tread or meal, and one-eighth of a pound of mudred thousand men by volunteering before a draft was ordered, and that term expires on Monday next. We have always been of the opinion that a resort to drafting was impolitic, but when the policy was out of determined upon the policy was out of the policy was of the but when the policy was onco determined upon and received the assent of our most eminent military men, we felt it our duty to do all we could to render iteffective. It is now thought that the entire quota will be nearly filled by volunteers, recruits, and substitutes, while there are agents actively at work to procure the proper credit for all the slaves that have hear taken from Kentreky and allotted to the been taken from Keutucky and allotted to the regiments of other States. The success which ass attended this effort, thanks to the principle of Governor Bramlette, will mare rightly decrease the contingent of our states. The success which is a strength of the state of the strength of the strengt erially decresse the contingent of our heing protected by sbeds, from one bundred state, and will make the draft in many olaces merely nominal. We at any rate do not believe anything would be gained by post-size the draft of it made and chills, out of asven hundred. The same per ceutage would give seven thousand sick at Andersonville. It needs no comment, soning the draft, as it must come. Our peo-ole generally wait until the last wesk or picture stand out boldly in most horrible tnight before the designated time, and theu Nor is this all. Among the ill-fated of the celr anxlety to find substitutes naturally inmany who have suffered amputation in cou-sequences of injuries received before capture, seut from rebel hospitals before their wounds reasss their value. We know some, who, ith wise forethought, obtained their proxies were healed, there are eloquant witnesses of the barbarities of which they are victims. If to these facts is added this, that nothing more s soon as the call was made, and, as they rocared them when there was no excitedemoralizes soldiers and develops the evil passious of man than starvation, the terrible counent, they paid comparatively but little for hem. If the draft should be put off now for dition of the Union prisoners at Audsrsouville can be readily imagined. They are fast losing hope, and becoming utterly reckless of life. Numbers, crazed by their sufferings, wander about in a state of idiocy; others detime, there would be the same apathy as here was a month ago, and the same appreensions when the time was about to expire Besides this, it has become the duty of ev liberately cross the "dead line," and are re-more clessly shot down. ry one who owes military service to his ountry to yield it readily. Some men are born to greatness, som achieve it, others have it thrust upon them. The case was otherwise as regards the greatness of Gandler. Gandler purchased his greatness, and got it at a bargain. A century ago Gandler sold tripe at Tottleton. He sold good tripe, and consequently was a famous man in his line and time. But Gandler aspired to fame after deetb-to an immortal name in the car of succeeding generations of Tottletonians Tripe was not calculated to give it him. Pos-terity would not be likely to remember that their aucestros hought good trips at the shop of Gandler. But still the tripe seller of Tottleton was resolved that the namo of Gandler tleton was resolved that the namo of Gandler should be handed down to generations yet unborn. This is how Gardler did it. If made a will and died. The m.k ing of the will was a deliberate affair; but not so the dying part of the business. Gandler did not intend to die when he did; but he cold not help himself. In the full y ger of his man cold he fell a victim to hard-boiled eggs. They opened Gandler and declared hard boiled eggs to be the cause, and then they opened the will, and found cause, and then they opened the will, and found that the eminent tripe-seller of Tottleton, set-ting aside his relatives, had left all his worldly weulth to be applied to the purposes of charity. Tho reward of conscientious tripe-selling had not been great, for the whole of Gandler's worldly wealth amounted to no more than two hundred pounds. In his will ho directed that this sum should be placed out at interest; and that the annual proceeds should form an an-nuity to be granted by the votes of the householders of Tottleton to destitute but deserving old men of that perisb. It was especially di rected that the henevolence should be called "Gandler's Annuity."

I was first brought to a knowledge of the name and fame of Gandler about two years ago, when I went out to take up my abode at Tottleton. Tottleton is a pretty place in the merry month of July; and the chestnut and laburnum trees which line both sides of the broad white road which constitutes Tottleton's only street, are most beantiful to see, especially when they are in full bloom. But there was another beautiful feature of Tottleten, which seemed to do it infinitely more creditits alms-bouses. It appeared to me that the private houses bore no sort of ndeqoote proportion to them, and that the only houses which did were the public honses. The way in which these two institutions were regularly alternoted on both sides of the road for more than a mile, snggested that one was the cause of the other. It seemed as if the public honses had brought the whole neighborhood to poverty, and consigned the entire population to dependence. The mural inscriptions which met the eye told of but two things-strong drink, and old men and women of the parisb come to grief. The Cock and Bittle appeared to be responsible for zeven poor old men; the Nag's Head for ninc poor old women; and the Bell for fourteen orphan girls. There was, however, a striking disproportion between the size of the publicses, and that of the alms-houses. The latter were so small and compact, and with a large inscription on the front of them, so like a neat parcel, that they might bave been brought down from a mewhere by the carrier. Possihly they might have been left at the Cock and Bottle till called for.
Well, if the sins of Tottleton had been multitudinons, Charity had done her best to cover I had mentally pointed this moral, when Mr. Gubbins, running out from the Swan, addressed mc. Perhaps I should state that I had honored the Swan with my patronage, as regards the family mild ale. "Beg your pardon, sir; but I ll take it as a favor if you will give your voto for Parsley."

I ventured to inquire who Parsley was, and what ha was examinated. what he was standing for. Was it the borough, the country, or simply the vestry?

No; Parsley did not aspire so high. He was merely n candidate for Gandler's Annuity. Parsley's qualification was all right. He was seventy-live years of age, a native of the parish, had paid rates and taxes for over forty years, was enten np with the rheumatics, was past work, bore an excollent character, and adu't a penny in the world. Gnndler's Annuity, amounting to £9 14s. 7d., would make him happy and comfortable for the remainder of his days. The ststement of Parsley's numerous merits in the wny of age, destitution, and incapacity, was not to be resisted, and I think I should have cried "Parsley forever!" on the spot, only it occurred to me, 'considering Parsley's ege, that it wouldn't he much use. However, I promised to make an appearce on the following evening, and vote for

When at the appointed time I turned out into the village, and came in sight of the Swan's swinging sign, I could see that something was creating a great sensation. It was the election for Gandler's Annuity. Could Gandler have looked up from his grave, he would have had no regrets on the score of hard-boiled eggs. That fatal indigestion ball awoke to a glorious immortality. The hon-ored name of Gandler was in every month. The boys shonted it in trinmph; the grown up people murmured it in grateful admiration; and in the bow window of the Swan it was inscribed in large letters, bind side foremost, In the innocent idea that an inscription designed to be read from the inside, could be easily dcciphered from the out.

On mingling with the little crowd that had collected round the horseblock noder the Swan's awinging sign, I found the merits of the candidates being discussed with great animation I say cand dates; for I now learned for the first time that Parsley was not the only one. There was another, and his name was Barrowfield. Weuld I vote for Barrowfield? According to the representations of his friends at the horseblock, Barrowfield was aged, indigent, and afflicted to an unprecedented extent. One hold partisan ventured upon the assertion that Rarrowfield had been present at the coronation of George the Tnird. Another declared that, however that might be e could testify from his own knowledge that Barrowfield had been present at the arrillery practice last week, and that he had not even winked when they let off the six-hundred pounder. This was adduced in evidence of the profound and stony character of Barrowfield'a leafness It is mentioned as further supporting Barrowfield's claim to the bounty of the mmor'al Gandler, that even if he were elected his life, it would not be of much advantage to bim, as he hadn't a tooth left in his head. was also stated incidentally that in the course of his long career Barrowfield had received fractures (mo-tly compound) of almost every bone in his body; bnd lost two wives, three cows, and a donkey; and had had his gray hairs brought to the very vergo of the grave by the misconduct of a large family of sona and daughters, who, according to the popular account, had fallen in and marched quick step to the had, in a deliberate and organized man-

Hearing of the overwhelming merits of Barrowfield. I felt that Mr. Gubbins had not dealt fairly with me. Why had he artfully thrown the veil of si'ence over the candidature of Barrowfield, and andaly enlisted my sympathics on behalf of Parsley? Entering the har I domanded of Mr Gubbins why he had done this thing. The explanation was this: For five and thirty years regular, Parseley had "need" the Swan; whereas Barrowfield had "need" the Pleush. Besides, if I would only take Mr. Gubbins's word for it, Barrowfield, as regards Parsley. Would I come and look at Pursley, and judge for myself? Certainly.

Wherenpen Mr. Gubhins led the way to the parlor, threw open the door, and pointed to a little old man sitting smiling in an imbecile manner, in an arm chair three sizes too large 'There, sir: how will that sn't your fancy for a hald-hended, hundy-legged, broken-down And Mr. Gubhins went up and patted old Parsley on the head, and turned him about to show his points, as if he had been a snpcrannnated horse. I was bound to admit that Parsley seemed old enough at any rate, and that his physical dilspidation was all that could he reasonably desired in such a case. A burst of cheering, ontside announced the arrival of Barrowfield, and I was invited to go and take a look at the opposition. Overpow-ered by his exertions in walking from his comnittee-room at the Plough (exactly opposite), Barrowfield was sitting down to rest on the horseblock, sorrounded by his partisans. His gray hairs, his feebleness, and his gasps for breath, seemed to be regarded as an expression of his claims to the suffrage of the electors; for he more Barrowfield tried to get his breath and couldn't, the louder his partisans cheered. as much as to say, "There's infirmity for yon; match that if you can l"

Mr. Nobba, the butcher, appeared to he Barrowfield's best supporter. Finding that the boys were getting too much to the front, as they always do on occasions of popular excitement, Mr. Nobbs rushed in among them, and whisked them away like fires from a sugar whisked the super cask is super cask on this occasion being cask of the super cask of the cask; the super eask on this occasion

DROUTHS AND THE CAUSES.—What bas een our experience this year there is too much reason to apprehend will recur hereafter Within the memory of the present geogration here prolonged drouths were not common; now they are becoming the rule. In many o npon Mrs. Donovan and demanded to know if the Southern States, where they have more ho e wished to ruin the old man; and then weather, rain occurs more uniformly. There shing up to Barrowfi ld, whispered in his car: is for this a re-son within casy explanation. The excessive dry weather of the Northern States is mainly attributable to the destruction "Hide it; put it awny; if they see you with much mency about you they'll go and vote Parsley." Barrowfield not heing shile nd his pocket, Mr. Nobbs took possession is penny and hid it for him. Mr. Gabbi "While wood was cheap and there were no radroads to consume i', e ame out to announce that the hour apprinced or the election was approaching; Mr. Nobba ad better being his candidate in-doors. woodland to inture the recurrence of we quaternil bave been denuld, the owners of be foil imaging that cal would a sver This was easier said than done; for Barron They find out too late that wi h the extirpation of the woods the ground is less fertile; while oocket handkerchief, and his spectacles), full o pices like a ruin. I have cut the above article from the very spectable paper in which it appeared to show hat a newspaper of bigb authority in many things can be very poor authority in others. The full scies of the writer of the ubove article are opposed and disproved by the experience of every msn of mature ago as well as the weather chronology of our country since its

There have been series or cycles of years in which extensive and long-continued prevailed over wide districts of the United tates, more than in others. There have been ther series or cycles of years in which excessively wet seasons have occurred. Again, the with difficulty propped up in a corner of the jug and bottle department. seasons have continued with alternate moisture and sunshine during the growing season for successive years of abundant production, with Mr. Nobbs demanded a pot of porter with tle variation of character throughout the onntry, whether wooded or open, plein or discovering the source of the Nile.
"Well, bere's luck, old boy; and I wish you may get it." This was Mr. Nobba's address nountainous. It is true that in certain localiies of not a hundred miles in diameter, where depressions prevail over the surface, the higher grounds are obundantly nurtured by the passng rains, while the plains or valleys contigu-"Ooghin't he, now?"

A'though pledged to Parsley—which, under a sense of Barrowfield's superior qualificaons are dry, and suffer by drouth, and per haps, as a rule, the bills or mountainous re ion receive more rain during the summer ities are controlled more by the course of the winds and the elevation of the rain clouds for ne time than by any regular change or tenlency of the earth to attract the rains by the a hundred feet high, or to repol them from its

The destruction of our forests can have nothing to do with the falling of rain or its absence. An examination of the history of our early settlements, when the whole surface of the country was forested, will show that excessive drouths have occasionally o curred rom the earliest dates, when but a small porion of the forests had been cleared. It is true that the streams have become drier during the ong hot summers than formerly. atural reason exists for that in clearing up the land, drying the swamps, and clearing out waters in the spring. For the same reason onr spring floods may be higher than of old, as the mer obstacles to the passage of the melting snows and heavy rains are absent.

Another proof that the wooded surfaces of he conn ry can have but little if any effect preventing dron'h is that our prairie States, a rule, are no more liable to excessive drouth than they. Illino's, Iowa, parts of Wiscon in, Missouri, and portions of several other States, huodreds of miles in extent, have ledge themselves. Hodi alterem party was always been bare of wood, yet they do not suf-'Very well, then," said Mr. Nobbs; "trot er for rain, on the average, more then the eut your alterem party."

After some high words it was agreed that Barrowfield should be set down on the chair mountain and other wooded surfaces. The consumption of wood by the railroads has nothing at all to do with the matter, and it is simply a question of agricultural economy with the farmer, or landbolder, whether Mr. Nohbs accordingly removed Barrowfield shall cht off his wood or not, as rendering his soil more or less productive in the growth of wood or cultivated crops. Our Evening Post writer says: "The S ate that should be mediately provided Pareley with n glass of hot centring off the woods) would display a sagecity rum, which was a liquor a cnt above gin at any rate. The two "objects" were now left alone not equalled hy any government in the world!" In my opinion, the State which should comwho, though a philanthropist, was also a man mence such an act of tomfoolery would very soon get sick of its hargain, even if it had the power to carry it out against the consent or in-terests of its landholders. If the subject be ta entering upon their arduous and invidious "within the grasp of seientific research," lc the facts be discovered and demonstrated, and then it will be time to practise. A merely plausible theory, resting on no other hypotheals thon a prurient imaginotion, and a total ignoring of all past experience, is hardly worth the attention of thoughtful men. Does the writer forget that in the summer of 1852, only twelve years ago, a more disressing and longer drought prevailed over Northern, Eastern, and Southern New York, and a great part of New Eugland, than has might be a little older than the other; but that existed the present summer? Such is the fact, and all those regions of country are well wooded—perhaps half its surface—while Western New York, with its surface mostly open to cultivation, as well as the regions for hundreds of miles west of it, were blessed with timely rains and abundant crops. And partially so the present year. Although the whole country has suffered by some drouth, the prairie States have had far more rain than those cast of them. Any number of theories have been started for getting up rain in dry times since my boyhood, but I have known none of them inder the great laws of the universe, and rain falls in its own good time and manner, as regardless of man and his puny efforts as of the insceis that burrow beneath his feet.

TITH DOUTH AND CHOPS.—The greatest routh ever known in this part of the State, so early in the season, and continuing two iontha with unabated severity, has come to au end. Ou the first day of August, the winhave been falling almost constantly, for nearly three days, until both man and beast rejoy unspeakable, giving thanks to fires have been burning in different directions and often filling the air with smoke, so that it of great anxiety and distress, whon men's hearts failed them; but the spell is broken! Friends meet, congra ulate each other, and express their gratitude to the Giver of all and Cayuga, winter wheat is good, barley fair, grass light, oats lighter, and tobacco lightest. Much of the best land has been approprinted to tobacco; but notwithstanding constant watering and nursing, it has hitberto steadily refused to "go ahead." Tobacco growers are in the dumps; and it is to be their labors will end in smoke Land eaongh. he very best and richest, has been devoted to Mr. Nobbs made an attempt to resist this conclusion; but his logical effort to show counties for a long time, if it bad here used counties for a long time, if it bad heen used for some good purpose. Is it right for Christiaus to grow hops and tobacco for market? Corn is very light, except in this town; potatoes have been very unpromising, but will doubtless come forward rapidly under the innence of the beavy rains. Ou the 14th day of April last, as I was renoving stones from one of my mandows, I was surprised to find the ground covered with insects full of activity and life. I drove in eral, and found that they were real grasshoppers, vnrying in size from an atom to half an irch in length. Soon after, the weather became very cold, the ground was frozen very tion, I endeavored to state the problem in a pers came to an untimely and inglorions end.

Mathematical manner, and to show that the Donbtless such was the fact; but another gendestructive than the first, spreading consternation among the farmers, and threatening to nsume whatever the dronth may have left In some places the ground is literally covered with them; and they move at your approach, like a cloud of locusts, in numbers sufficient to devour everything before them.
